A HIDING PLACE FOR BUSES AND DUMP TRUCKS? The Monterey County Planning Commission will decide next week whether or not Roach Canyon, which cuts north off of Carmel Valley Road above the station wagon in this picture, is an appropriate location for a County corporation yard and a repair garage and parking lot for Carmel school busses. This 15-acre parcel was deeded to the county in 1964 "for public purposes," and at the time everyone understood that meant a park, or greenbelt area. But the language is open to other interpretations, and school busses and County road equipment do serve a public purpose. The road department and school officials argue that these unpopular facilities are desperately needed, and since nobody wants to look at them, hiding them up Roach Canyon is the perfect answer. The Sierra Club and the CVPOA, among others, vehemently disagree.

ROACH CANYON in Carmel Valley. This view, taken by Jerry Lebeck, shows the lower part of the canyon, and illustrates an area of great natural beauty which the Sierra Club and others want preserved.

OR SHOULD THE BUSES GO HERE? This open field is part of a 53-acre tract the school district owns at Middle School. The school district's own master plan included a school bus compound in the back of the property, where it would face on the extension of Rio Road. Out sight in this picture is a 25-foot hill on the right, which could help screen the bus yard and garage from view from Carmel Valley Road. If the garage were built here, busses could drive out through the Middle School road until Rio Road is lengthened. In the past, several school board members have expressed concern about the reaction of residents in lower Carmel Valley if the busses are parked behind Middle School. "If you think we've run into trouble in the Valley," sighed one board member, "just wait until we try to put them out at Middle School." (See story on Page 3.)

Public meeting Thursday to explore water supply problem

By PAT GRIFFITH

The first full-scale public hearing on the problems of water supply on the Monterey Peninsula will take place tomorrow night (Thursday) in Brey Hall at Carmel High School.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the first time that an officer of the California-American Water Company, Cachagua Valley property owners, conservationists and county officials have been brought together in a public forum to discuss the complex issues involved.

Scheduled to speak no more than five minutes each are: Loren Smith, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, on the role of the County government in domestic water supply problems.

Willard Branson, county supervisor from Carmel Valley, on the need for additional water for the Peninsula.

Loren Bunte, county flood control engineer, on the ways in which water supply and flood control can be combined, and the role of the County flood control district.

A.K. Fuller, vice president of the California American Water Co., on water supply policy.

Sean Flavin, attorney and chairman of a Cachagua citizens' committee, on the concern of property owners.

Edward Thornton, civil engineer and physical oceanographer at the Naval Postgraduate School, on the effect of a curtailed river flow on beaches.

AUDIENCE TO PARTICIPATE

Following the brief opening statements, the meeting will be open to questions from the audience. Moderator for the evening will be James Demetry, acting chairman of the Ventana Chapter's conservation committee.

The meeting is expected to draw a large turnout from Cachagua Valley as well as persons from lower Carmel Valley concerned about the ecological effect of a new dam on the Carmel River.

The California American Water Company disclosed in January it plans to build a major new dam on the upper Carmel River before 1975. Spokesmen for the company said that their preliminary studies indicated Cachagua Valley would be a favorable location for the dam, and geologic surveys and test borings are now being conducted in the Pine Creek area.

A preliminary engineering report prepared by Kennedy Engineers recommended that the company first build a dam below the present San Clemente Dam, to meet the area's water needs for the next 15 years. It suggested construction of a Cachagua dam in 1985.

Cachagua Valley property owners favor the first part of this proposal, but hope that by 1985 the county could get additional water from the future Arroyo Seco Dam, or the San Luis Reservoir.

The pros and cons of all these possibilities, plus additional background information on many related issues, will be brought out at the meeting tomorrow night.

The public is invited.

FIRST THE Telephone Company announced it is asking for rate increase which would boost the average residential telephone bill on the Monterey Peninsula by $1.85 a month. And now PG&E plans to do likewise, if the California Public Utilities Commission approves. The local PUC hearing on the proposed PG&E increase will be held in the community room of the Monterey Public Library on Thursday, April 9, at 10 a.m. It's your only chance to get your two cents in before it evaporates in higher utility bills.

WILDLIFE OF MONTEREY COUNTY ...

Townsend Gray Fox

By LESTER GOLDEN

This small wild member of the dog family is little understood and extremely shy. Slight of build, lithe and graceful, with large erect ears and inquisitive glance, he is an altogether fascinating little animal.

The gray fox is the only member of the Canidae, or dog family, to climb trees to escape from its enemies or even to gain access to a hollow in a tree trunk or limb as its nesting site.

The Townsend gray fox, common to this area, seldom weighs more than 10 pounds nor measures more than two feet in length, including the 15 inch long tail. The gray fox is conspicuous in flight or play as he swings his long and heavily furred tail as an aid to balance, much as a tight-rope walker uses his long pole for the same purpose.

The gray fox is not strictly nocturnal and may occasionally be observed in the day time as he goes about the business of work or play.

I once enjoyed the rare privilege of watching an adult fox romp and play with three half grown fox pups in an open green meadow in bright sunlight. They were a joy to see as, with long tails swinging, those four foxes played a game of tag or follow-the-leader around and between clumps of bunch-grass and small bushes. But even in play they were silent and the adult fox was ever alert for possible danger. Although I remained motionless, my presence was soon detected and they melted away like magic into the surrounding underbrush.

The gray fox feeds on wood-rats and white footed mice and some birds. The diet may include wild berries and fresh fruits. True enough, the fox will sometimes kill chickens or turkeys when such tempting prizes are available. Like all wild animals, they take whatever food comes easiest.

The gray fox falls prey himself and is killed and eaten by coyotes, bob-cats and golden eagles.

The fox's extremely hoarse and rather prolonged bark, heard in late spring and early summer, either in daytime or early evening excites the curiosity of the uninitiated. Orientation of this rather eerie sound with such an in-offensive and colorful small animal is sometimes difficult.

It seems senseless to condemn this tireless harmless and altogether fascinating little animal as an enemy to man simply because of the rather remote possibility of a raid on some careless farmer's chicken coop.

The gray fox is an active and vital member of the wildlife community and performs an essential function in nature's delicate balance.

The Rhyming Philosopher

MOMENTUM

Comes Spring, spelling Winter's receding in theory if not true in fact;

I feel double-crossed when the bite of the frost proves calendars aren't quite exact.

Far be it from me to be pleading for time to stand still or retreat,

Yet count me as one who embraces the sun and revels to soak up the heat.

But Time, when you're old gets to speeding, a week flashes by like a day;

Where once you enthused you are now all confused like meeting next winter half way.

My heart is not given to bleeding for those who make Time their excuse,

Or blame on the weather for failure, together with this worn-out wail, "What's the use?"

But so as to not be misleading,
the point I am making is this:

Just do your own thing, and regardless of Spring there's little in life that you'll miss.

TO THE EDITOR

Gentlemen:

We've been interested in the letters about dogs on the loose, since a large St. Bernard dog has made it a practice to overturn our garbage can in the middle of the night from 2:30 a.m. to 3:30 a.m. He is a very intelligent animal, figuring how to get off the wire that my husband had fixed on the top to the side handles, and then the next week to getting off the barbed wire that had been added as a deterrent to no avail.

We have since added a storage area and have the garbage can under lock and key, which the dog hasn't figured out yet. However, since the garbage man comes earlier we have been forced to dress in a hurry and get the can out so the garbage may be collected.

The owners of the lovely St. Bernard may care to know that he eats chicken carcasses without seeming to harm him? Also, he must get some aluminum foil in his system trying to get at the carcass. I don't feel that is taking good care of a lovely animal. The thought has occurred to me that some poisoned meat in the can might discourage the animals. But after all it isn't the animal's fault for trying to get enough to eat.

Have cut out two articles from the Mercury Herald that have some excellent thought provoking ideas which might interest a lot of people.

Sincerely,

MRS. COBY LORENZEN

To the Editor:

Will Carmel Valley Have a Chance to Survive?

In the next few months some major decisions as to Carmel Valley's future may well answer this question.

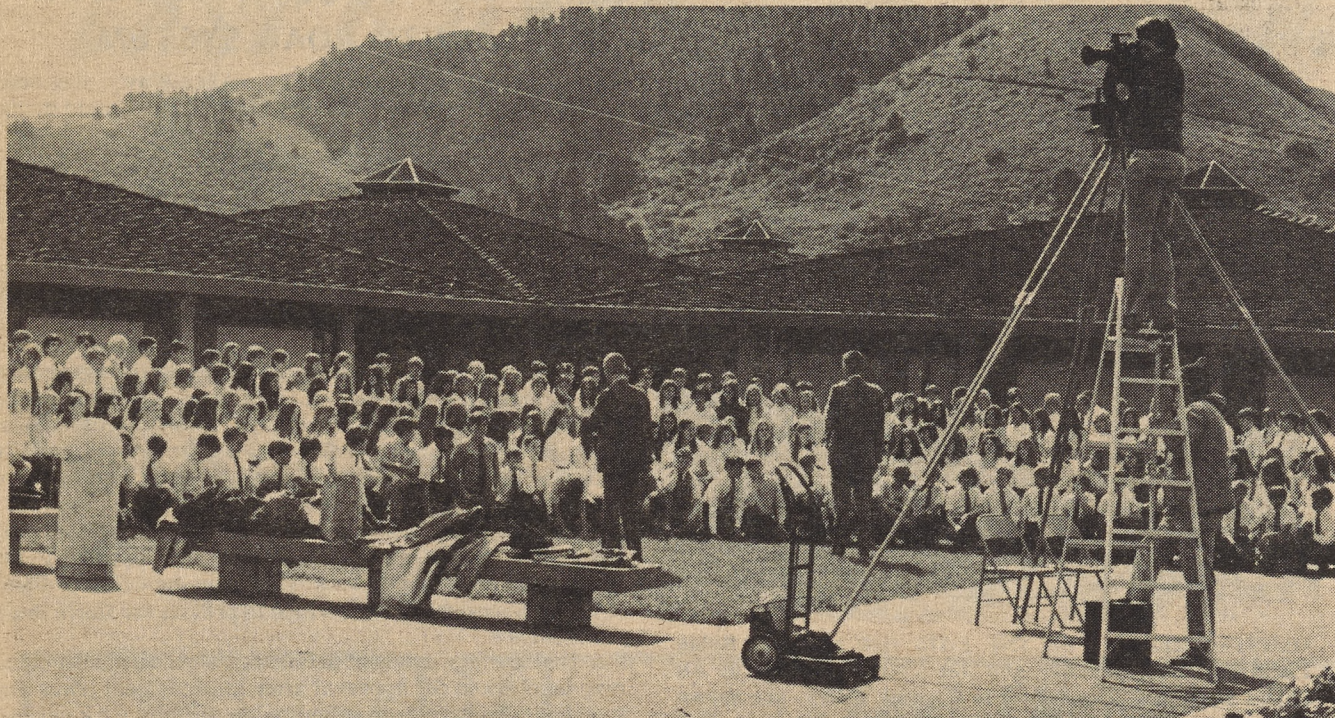

The Zoning Ordinance for Hillside Conservation comes before the Planning Commission on March 24 at 3 p.m. in Salinas.

A few large land owners are putting pressure on the commission for their benefit. How about the residents of the Valley, what are they doing or do they care? Ask questions of the CVPOA - they are in existence to represent the Valley. Public Opinion will ultimately be the determining factor. If there is none, the Planning Commission will make the decision for you and not always to your benefit.

If in a few years or months you see our beautiful green mountains scarred with roads, and homes, the river gone (because of the dams) smog (result of a four lane highway) it will be too late. You must act now if you care about Carmel Valley's future, the clean air and peaceful atmosphere we have here are becoming a rarity in California, we must protect and save it.

Stage set for showdown on site for school bus yard

Carmel school officials will be waiting hopefully in the wings next week when the County Road Department applies for a use permit for Roach Canyon, near Del Mesa Carmel.

Included in the petition before the County Planning Commission on March 25 will be a county corporation yard, a repair garage and parking area for Carmel school busses, and a fire station to serve the middle and lower Valley.

The school district, which has been burned once by the Planning Commission's firm opposition to locating the bus garage behind Carmelo School, has judiciously decided to let County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain fight the battle this time.

The plan, an all-or-nothing package, involves building on the level portion of a 15-acre site that was deeded to the County by Alcan-Pacific Co., developers of Del Mesa Carmel "for public purposes" in 1966. At the time, there was general understanding that the land would be preserved as a greenbelt-park area, and one day would serve as access to an expanded Jack's Peak Park.

Since that time, the County Board of Supervisors has ruled it will not administer any area under 50 acres as a county park. And the lack of definition of what was meant by "public purposes" in the deed apparently removes legal objections to putting public facilities on the land.

So the issue now goes before the Planning Commission, and heated arguments no doubt will be advanced on both sides.

McClain will point out that the road department has been trying for several years to locate a corporation yard in Carmel Valley, and has been thwarted at every turn by opposition from property owners. The seven acres on the floor of Roach Canyon, he will contend, offer a suitable location away from public view for the corporation yard, bus garage and firehouse.

Approximately eight acres of hillside property would be left alone for hiking trails and horseback riding, still permitting access to Jack's Peak.

PERFECT SOLUTION?

The Carmel school board feels the site is the "perfect solution" for the controversial bus garage. It would be hidden, a county watchman would be on duty to guard against vandalism, and the road department would share the expense of site development.

Strongly opposed to the idea are conservationists, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and Don McLean, president of Del Mesa Carmel.

Strong opposition to the development of Roach Canyon was expressed by several Valley residents at Tuesday night's meeting of the Lower Valley Advisory Board at St. Philip's Lutheran Church. Fred Naber, one-time president of the Rancho Rio Vista Property Owners Association and now a resident of Del Mesa Carmel, presented a history of Roach Canyon.

Naber said the county is guilty of bad faith, poor understanding of ecological needs and faulty judgment regarding traffic dangers on Carmel Valley Road in suggesting the development of Roach Canyon.

Dr. Eleanor Hammerlund presented a petition with several hundred signatures urging the county supervisors to save the parcel for a cultural center for the Valley and Monterey County.

The CVPOA declared two weeks ago that the only logical place for the school bus garage is on property the school district already owns behind Middle School, on an acre site fronting on the extension of Rio Road.

The school board has been reluctant to put the bus compound there because of the anticipated protest from people living in Carmel Knolls. Even though the Middle School location would be near a sprawling shopping center-motel complex, school officials are afraid the addition of several school busses and a maintenance garage would meet with strong opposition.

Thus they hope the road department will win approval to build in Roach Canyon. If that is denied, board members may well decide to proceed with construction on two acres by Carmelo School -- which they may do legally despite a negative ruling by the Planning Commission -- rather than risk alienating influential Carmel residents.

TELEPHONE COMPANY ASKS RATE INCREASE OF $1.85-$4 A MONTH

Pacific Telephone will seek rate increases totaling $195,000,000 annually from its nearly 6,000,000 California customers.

The Company said its current low level of earnings - estimated at 5.82 percent for 1970 - is inadequate to finance construction programs totaling more than $1.5 billion for 1970 and 1971, the need for large quantities of equipment, and improved wages for its work force, all of which are essential to maintaining and improving service.

The Company is filing a formal application with the California Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco.

If approved, rates for basic one-party residence services would be increased by about $1.85 per month in most cities. For business customers, the increase in the cost of basic service would amount to about $4.00 a month.

Thus in Monterey for example, monthly bills for basic residential service would increase from $4.75 to $6.60 and for basic business service from $9.05 to $13.15.

"Looking to the future", Don Boston, local manager, explained, "the quality and quantity of Pacific Telephone's service is conditioned upon its ability to construct facilities early enough and in quantities sufficient to meet the public's needs."

In 1968 the California Public Utilities Commission allowed the Company to earn up to 6.9 percent on its investment.

What is required is a "reasonable and necessary" rate of return in the range of 8½ percent - 9 percent, Boston said.

In making its decision to request an increase in basic service rates, Boston said that the level of rates has been virtually unchanged in the past 10 years.

JACQUELINE SPENCER MARRIES DR. DICKINSON AT PALO ALTO

Of interest in local circles is the recent marriage in Palo Alto of Jacqueline Klein Spencer of Portola Valley and Dr. William Richard Dickinson of Menlo Park. Jacqueline, the daughter of Mrs. Henriette Neal Millard of Carmel Valley, spent her childhood and high school years in Carmel.

Dr. Dickinson is professor of Geology at Stanford University. He led the recent Penrose Conference of the National Geological Society of America, which convened at Asilomar. In 1965, as a Guggenheim Fellow, he made a geological study of the Fiji Islands.

Dr. Dickinson is the son of Mrs. Margaret Smith Seeger of Santa Barbara and the late Jacob McGavock Dickinson.

Mrs. Spencer studied at the University of Oregon where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley and took further studies at the Sorbonne. She has two sisters, Mrs. Maxwell (Cynthia) Chaplin of Washington, D.C. and Mrs. Robert (Elizabeth "Ginger") Harmon of Belvedere. Her father is Dr. Millard Alan Klein of Alameda.

The new Mrs. Dickinson has two sons, Jon and Brian Spencer, ages 16 and 14, respectively. Dr. Dickinson's two sons, Ben, 12, and Ross, 8, reside in Arcata.

Jackie and Bill are avid mountaineers, both through their love of the Sierra and in pursuit of Bill's academic interests. They are living presently in the Woodside area of Portola Valley.

ALICE WAY TO BE INTEGRATED INTO COUNTY ROAD SYSTEM

A new street in Carmel Valley -- Alice Way -- has been approved for acceptance into the County Road System by the County Planning Commission.

The road is a cul de sac off Via Contenta.

The subdivision committee recommended acceptance, subject to seven conditions which Larry Cummings, appearing on behalf of the request, agreed to.

The conditions are:

1. That the approved tentative map be submitted to applicable utility companies for required easements.

2. That a ten foot drainage easement be deeded to the County along the west boundary of the tract and agreement shall be entered into with the County to pay for the material cost of a 24 inch storm drain pipe to be placed in this easement. These two conditions may be shared equally between the tract and the adjacent Fire Department property.

3. That the storm drain portion of this project be approved only after the Health Department has approved the elimination of the septic tank effluent in the existing ditch.

4. That a service area be formed to provide for storm drain maintenance.

5. That the improvement details as shown on this tentative map be checked for approval after improvement plans and specifications have been submitted to this office for review.

6. That the final pavement structural section be determined after rough grading of the street section.

7. That all road improvements be constructed in accordance with the Monterey County Subdivision Ordinance and Standards adopted January, 1970.

The motion was carried by unanimous vote of all Commissioners present.

PADRE TRAILS CAMERA CLUB TO SEE COLORFUL TRAVELOG

The Padre Trails Camera Club meets Thursday at 8:00 p.m., in the Music Room (next to Brey Hall), at Carmel High School. A colorful travelog -- Mexico City for a Sunday -- photographed and narrated by Galyn Hammond, will be presented. This is a brand new slide show of a recent trip the Hammonds made to ever-fascinating Mexico.

At this meeting, each member of the club will present four color slides on nature subjects from which six will be chosen for entry in the Photographic Society of America nature contest, to be judged in May, by the Great Falls Camera Club, Great Falls, Montana.

And members are reminded to bring any slides they can contribute for the P.S.A. Hospital Project, with the name and locale of each slide indicated on it. These slides are gathered and sorted into travelogs and picture essays for use in veterans' hospitals over the country.

Visitors are most welcome at the Padre Trails Club meetings.

FIRST GRADERS watch with amazement as Laura Valpey operates a rudimentary gramophone made from a cardboard box. As part of a sixth grade science project at Tularcitos School, Laura studied about Thomas Edison's first phonograph, and from that made her own model. Science teacher Herb Reuter said her project and written report were "one of the most thorough pieces of work I've ever had."

- Photos by George T.C. Smith

THE FIRST BICYCLE was made of wood and was pushed along by the rider's feet, like a coaster. Katherine Belleci spent over two hours carving this scale model of a primitive bicycle as part of a sixth grade science project. Here she shares what she learned with two intent first grade students, Franz Collas and Terry McNulty.

THE FIRST GUTENBERG PRESS was very similar to this working model built by Julie Zoellin and Tracy Rushman. Working together, the girls learned a lot about printing, including the fact that letters on the press had to be reversed to make them come out correctly on paper. They also wrote individual reports, which their teacher, Herb Reuter, praised as "outstanding ... their writing skills are easily tenth grade level."

THE CARMEL VALLEY LITTLE LEAGUE 1970 season officially opened last Wednesday and Thursday, the two nights designated for sign-ups of Valley boys in the Carmelo and Tularcitos areas who are interested in playing ball. Among the officials on hand to welcome and assist the 85 boys and their parents were league president, Mrs. Steve Thigpen, vice president, George Palmer, treasurer, Steve Thigpen, and assistant player agent, George Groves.

Tryouts for team assignments will be held March 28 and April 4 at the Carmel Valley Little League Field on Paso Hondo. Eight to 10 year olds are scheduled for 10-12 p.m. and the 11 and 12 year olds 11-3 on those dates. Any boy unable to sign up previously may do so on those two field days, but must be 8 years old by July 31, have one parent or guardian accompany him, and bring proof of birth date.

There are still many preliminary arrangements for Kaye and the league board before play actually begins. On the NEEDED list are sponsors for the Major League Teams, and volunteer sign painters to paint the advertising which has been sold on the fence at the field. Anyone willing to assist may phone 624-4494.

"Bucks for Bats," the annual door to door fund drive by the boys, their parents, and coaches has been scheduled for April 11. Don't forget to have a dollar bill by your front door for the young men in the baseball hats!

DAFFODILS PLAYED a major role 50 years ago when on February 26, 1920, Miss Babe Tholcke became the bride of Robert Cozzens at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J.W. (Bill) Tholcke in Salinas. The marriage took place during a flu epidemic which had closed schools, churches and banned large public gatherings. Family and friends (one of whom was a florist) conspired to provide a beautiful floral setting. The couple recited their vows under a wedding bell created of daffodils in front of a bay window encircled with garlands of the same bright flowers.

At a champagne supper hosted March 1 by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bowker of Salinas, Mr. and Mrs. Cozzens were feted by 50 relatives who gathered in the banquet room of the Italian Villa which had been sentimentally decorated with bouquets of daffodils.

Highlight of the Golden Wedding Anniversary party was the cutting of a three tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Cozzens chose a gown of pink lace for the special occasion and was presented a golden Cattleya orchid corsage. During Mr. Cozzens' career with Granite Construction, the celebrants have traveled extensively throughout the state and have lived in Berkeley, Watsonville, and Salinas. High on their list of interesting assignments were two years in Yosemite and

IN THE SPRING men's, boys (and dogs!) thoughts lightly turn to thoughts of LITTLE LEAGUE! Shown here are a portion of the boys who turned out at Carmelo School to sign up for the 1970 season. "Good Ole Charlie Brown" (see second row) has been saving his "Pitching Paw" all winter, but when the player agent checked his birth certificate, it was discovered that he is not old enough to play. Instead he has volunteered as League Mascot and as in years past purchased an advertising billboard at the field for the Car-

CHIEFS AND BRAVES of the Indian Guides' Paiute Tribe enjoyed a trip to the snow country last weekend when a Valley group drove to Sequoia National Park. Making the father-son trek were Roy Kaminske and Roy, Jr., Vic Harber and Jeff, Don Draper and Steve, Richard King and Chris, and Kevin Taguchi.

A CABLE FROM DUNDEE, Scotland brought word last week of a new addition to the "Clan". Mr. and Mrs. Norman Friddle of Pacific Grove learned that Mr. and Mrs. Kennett Friddle are parents of a son, Michael who arrived March 5. The new arrival's dad, a former Valley-ite is stationed in Scotland with the U.S. Navy, and accompanied by his wife, Rose, and their son, Joey were home on the Peninsula for the holidays. Especially happy with the news of a fourth great-grandchild is Mrs. Mable Love of River Road.

With a large family, seems like delicious aromas of birthday cake are always wafting from that River Road oven. Last week there were two with a tiny individual cake baked for Eddie Gorham's 2nd birthday and a large one to serve the other dinner guests. Eddie's parents, Jeannene and Bob Gorham and sister, Cherie drove down from their home in Freedom and his grandparents, Jean and Norm Friddle and uncles, Mike and Mark drove out from Pacific Grove.

THE EXPOSITION PAVILION of the Monterey County Fairgrounds was filled with 350 guests at the Junior League Cabaret Ball last Saturday night. The annual benefit sponsored by the Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula utilized the Bicentennial theme with League members and their husbands presenting a musical history of Monterey from 1770. The show was under the direction of Yuki Shimoda, an associate of the Jerome Cargill Productions of New York City.

The black tie affair which opened with the singing of "In Old Monterey" by Hal Lockwood featured several Valley residents who contributed their talents to the tribute to the Bicentennial. Among them were Mrs. Blair McDonald of Brookdale Drive who appeared as a walking advertisement for Brinton's Hardware Store; in a Bicentennial costume escorted by the official ambassador, Ernie Osuma; and in "Hello My Baby", one of the celebrities arriving at the old Del Monte Hotel. Other walking advertisements were Mrs. Budd Hobbs of Terrace Way as "The Clock Restaurant", Mrs. John Rushmer of Boronda as "The Way Out House" and Mrs. Julie Beck of Palisade Drive as "M. Ragget Inc." Dancing followed the cabaret show to the music of Mike Marotta and his band.

Dick had been on a business trip through California to Boerne, Texas, where Rooter-Snoopers and Sewer-Snoopers are manufactured. He returned with the only one of the operations of its kind in this part of the state which affords the operator a televised diagnosis of the conditions of the pipelines.

THE BROWNIE SCOUTS led by Mrs. Richard King have been studying Peninsula history in preparation for the Bicentennial Parade in which they plan to enter a float depicting the ship in which Father Serra sailed into Monterey. As a part of their research they were promised a trip to the Carmel Mission. Mrs. King explained that this was where Father Serra was buried and asked if anyone could tell her what was at his feet. Properly impressed with "a little bear, representing the young state of California", the 12 little girls set out the following week for a first hand tour. After seeing a good part of the historical spot one impatient Brownie broke up the chaperones and nearby tourists by asking, "Yes, but where is Father Serra buried, I want to see his Teddy Bear!" Accompanying the girls were Mrs. King, Mrs. Jonathan Storm, Mrs. Lloyd Swanson and Mrs. Kirk Gayman.

THE VALLEY BRIDGE CLUB meets each Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Winners for the last two weeks have been in first place, Jonathan Rigdon and Gene McClay; second place, Ermine and Ernie Gravelle, third place Emily Hudelson and Evelyn Vandervort.

Several young men from the Defense Language Institute joined the Club last week and Richard Wright and Everett Fukushima carried first place honors back to the school with them. Second place winners were Evelyn Vandervort and EMILY Hudelson.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN WALLACE flew to San Diego last week for the Navy Boot Camp graduation of their son, David. They dined with the boys in the mess hall at a celebration dinner and returned home in time to welcome David on his arrival for a 14-day leave on Merrill Way. The Valley sailor will return to San Diego for a 16-week training course as an engine room mechanic.

INTEREST IN promoting a YWCA program was shown by the good attendance at the Altrusa Club dinner at the La Playa Hotel honoring the YWCA organizing committee. Besides members of this committee and Altrusa, there were delegates from the Quotal Soroptomist, and Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Represented also were the Unitarian Church, the United Church Women, and the Pacific Telephone Company. Special recognition was given to Miss Julia Minor, who spearheaded the idea of establishing a YWCA and to Mrs. Howard Roso who has carried the chairmanship of the volunteer group. Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, executive director of the organizing committee, was the speaker. She voiced the question in everyone's mind, "Why don't we have a YWCA organization, not a building, since all other communities the size of Monterey Peninsula have?" The program would serve girls and women of all races, colors and creeds, meeting their needs for recreation, exercises, crafts and vocations, and a registry for inexpensive rooms. Under volunteer leadership, a Slimnastic Class is being conducted now.

Mrs. T.W. Imlay was in charge of the arrangements for the successful dinner while Mrs. Louis Pubell, president of Altrusa, presided.

THAT FABULOUS HALF PRICE 7th Anniversary Sale at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Thrift Shop will be held Saturday from 11-4. All clothing for infants, children, men and women; furniture, books, records, and housewares are included. Come early for a good selection of bargains. It is a particularly good opportunity for individuals or organizations who have a Foster Child program to make up a box of wearable items very inexpensively. The shop is located above the Fellowship Hall on Village Drive. Said committee member, Mrs. Elbert Wade, "Like most BIG stores we have to clear our shelves occasionally in order to bring in new merchandise!" A light luncheon will be available at the Snack Bar.

THE PHONE BOOTH

Probably some of the most amusing on-the-job incidents reported by telephone employees come from installers. While dogs are traditionally the bane of postmen, they rarely encounter an alligator or elephant. Not so with the installers, who are trained and equipped to put in and maintain telephones just about anywhere.

One Bell System installer, for example, was confronted by a five foot alligator in the basement of a customer's home. ("Just a pet," the owner blithely explained.) Another installer had to fight off the affectionate attentions of 15 dogs which a customer was keeping in a 2 room flat. And then there's the installer who found himself trapped in the equipment room of a sports arena by an elephant who wouldn't budge from the doorway. The tales are endless, but such incidents are part of the job for these hard-working men—who'll face just about anything to bring you good telephone service.

Why Tularcitos 6th graders must go to Middle School

Starting in September, Tularcitos School will include students through the fifth grade only. Sixth graders will join children from all other parts of the district except Big Sur at Middle School.

This was the decision reached at last week's meeting of the Carmel board of education. The board voted unanimously to move the sixth grade out of Tularcitos after Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor put forth these reasons:

1. The Middle School staff feels there is a greater problem in getting to know and evaluate students individually if they are only at the school for two years. Taylor said this feeling is commonly shared by teachers at all schools throughout California that offer only a two-year program.

2. Children who enter Middle School in the seventh grade, rather than the sixth, seem to have less opportunity for leadership positions. He said that at present 14 out of 18 leadership positions at Middle School are held by students who entered in the sixth grade, and that only one student from Tularcitos is among these leaders.

3. There has been some problem in scheduling and staffing Middle School because of uneven class sizes. The seventh and eighth grades average about 250 students each, while the sixth grade has been about 70 "short" - the number of children attending Tularcitos.

4. Middle School offers some facilities, notably the gym, language laboratory and crafts rooms, which are not available in elementary schools.

PROS AND CONS

Taylor noted at this point, however, that Tularcitos offers a very good science program.

"It is an exceptional school in that regard," the superintendent said. "You can't use the science program as an argument in transferring students from Tularcitos to Middle School."

On the negative side, Taylor said, is the problem of transportation and the extended bus ride. He acknowledged this could work a hardship on some parents.

A delegation from Big Sur led by Don McQueen, a member of the Big Sur Property Owners Association and vice president of the Captain Cooper PTA, was adamant that sixth graders be allowed to stay at Captain Cooper School if they wished.

"Big Sur's going to violently disagree with anything that tends to standardize the schools," McQueen told the board.

"At the time we joined the school district ... and numerous times since we were assured and promised that this would not happen.

"Our kids leave down there at 6 o'clock in the morning, and get back at 5 p.m. Some of them deal with it very well, some don't.

"We can't see any reason for forcing them to go."

Another Big Sur resident, Mrs. Jack Curtis, argued that a child who gets home from a long bus ride can't do any homework.

"And no matter what they do, they cannot compete ... they can't be in sports, science experiments, etc., because they have to get the bus."

After hearing the persuasive Big Sur spokesmen, the board voted 4 to 1 to allow sixth graders from that area the choice of attending Captain Cooper or Middle School. Trustee Richard Wilsdon was opposed. He said he felt it was impossible to give a few students at Captain Cooper a sixth grade education equal to the program offered at Middle School.

NO OPPOSITION

No parents from Tularcitos spoke in opposition to the transfer. Dr. Edward Arana did ask board members if the change would set a precedent for compulsory school busing in the district.

Board chairman Hilton Bialek replied that compulsory busing was not an issue, since the overwhelming majority of students within the district are bussed to school every day anyway.

In response to a question by Mrs. Robert Oross, Taylor said that extra teachers at Tularcitos would be reassigned to other schools in the district, and that the additional classroom space would be utilized by grades K through 5.

Tularcitos School contains 23 classrooms. Of that total, two rooms are used for the library and one for an art room, leaving 20 classrooms for regular school use.

Principal George Gustafson said that starting in September he expects to use three rooms per grade, or 18 rooms in all. Another room will be used by the class for educationally handicapped, leaving one "left over."

This room will probably be used as a music room, Gustafson said, which is something many Tularcitos parents have wanted for a long time.

As of last month, Tularcitos had an enrollment of 485, including 19 educationally handicapped students. This is a drop from the previous year's peak enrollment of 520.

Without the sixth grade, next year's enrollment, excluding E.H. students, should be around 400 pupils, or 22-23 students per teacher-per classroom.

Gustafson also said he would expect to have 19 teachers on the staff next year -- three per grade level and one E.H. This is three less than are now at Tularcitos.

VERY LONG DAY

At the school board hearing, no reference was made to the distance (32 miles) children from Jamesburg and Cachagua must travel to reach Middle School. A check with the district's transportation department showed that the Cachagua bus starts off at 6:10 a.m. from the Fred Nason ranch, and picks up children en route until discharging them by the tennis courts near the bus yard shortly before 7 a.m.

Children wait there for 15 minutes, then board the main Middle School -- High School bus which arrives at Middle School at 7:45 a.m. On the return trip, they leave Middle School at 3:30, transfer at Tularcitos about 4 p.m. and get home by 5:15 p.m. For children who start out at the Nasons, it means an 11-hour school day.

The run from the farthest point south of Big Sur to Middle School is 40 miles. However the bus doesn't start out from there until 6:30 a.m., arriving at Middle School at 7:45 a.m. The return gets children back as far as Pardington Point by 5:15 p.m.

A driver explained that the earlier schedule is necessary for the Jamesburg-Cachagua run because the same bus that starts out at 6:10 a.m. must turn right around and pick up children to arrive at Tularcitos School by 8:30 a.m.

against it until they straighten out the problems down there (Middle School)."

MRS. DENNIS ROWEDDER: "Personally I think it's a good thing. They do enter into the program earlier. The little extra time spent on the bus is easily made up by participating in activities. If they go in later it makes them clique-y, and they tend to stay with their own group more."

MRS. JACK HERMANSON: "If there was a choice, I'd say no. I think when they go into the seventh grade, they should go to a different school. That's really soon enough. My daughter is still a little girl as far as I'm concerned. From the note that came home about the board meeting, I thought it was all cut and dried. If it's not a matter of needing more space, I don't understand why they're doing it."

MRS. CHARLES ALLAIRE: "I really wish they could stay at Tularcitos. I wish they could keep them here and not expose them to the older kids. Maybe if enough parents object they can stay at Tularcitos."

MRS. EDWARD A. FARRINGTON: "I heartily disapprove for several reasons. We live 14 miles up above the Village. He has to catch the bus at 6:15. I think that is a bit early. I really don't understand what the pressures are, why they are doing this. The board's arguments seemed like a rationalization to me. Sixth graders are not really ready to cope with the junior high situation. I don't understand how he can participate in any kind of sports program."

MRS. PAT DE AMARAL: "I was told that the reason this change was so great was because of the language and crafts at Middle School. They get that at Tularcitos. I think they're going to need a bigger bus. Still I think Frank can handle it all right. I'll admit I don't want to get up at 6 a.m. But the reasoning behind this isn't true, and I know it is a real inconvenience to some of my friends."

MRS. VIRGINIA DREW MURPHY: "I am in favor of it. I moved my daughter down there voluntarily. I think the instruction there is excellent. Alan is very thrilled about going, too."

MRS. PETER HOPKINS: "My feeling is that I prefer them to stay at Tularcitos. Transportation alone is a big consideration because they have to leave so much earlier. There are probably advantages at Middle School -- more electives and no recess. But I'm a little disappointed. I like Tularcitos. I think it's a wonderful experimental type of school. You

STEP UP DRUG EDUCATION IN CARMEL 7TH-12TH GRADES

All seventh, eighth and ninth grade students at Middle School and Carmel High School will participate in an extensive drug education program before the current school year ends.

At last week's school board meeting the district was authorized to sign a contract with the Lockheed Corporation for its drug education "package". This includes about 20 hours of classroom instruction on all types of drugs, using movies, film strips, role-playing activities and a special textbook.

The material gives straightforward, honest information about all drugs and involves students in roles as community leaders who must deal with the problems of drug abuse. Case histories of actual drug users are also included.

Dr. James Halcomb, chairman of the board's Drug Education Committee, strongly recommended the Lockheed program as the most comprehensive course yet developed for students at the seventh to ninth grade level.

The program will be incorporated into science classes. It will cost the district $5 per student, for a total of approximately $4000. If the program lives up to expectations, it will be a required course for all seventh graders starting in September.

Dr. Halcomb said that in "two to four weeks" his committee expects to have recommendations ready regarding a specific drug education course for sixth grade students. Consideration is also being given to what type of drug information would be appropriate for use from kindergarten through grammar school.

can't expect everything to be perfect always, but I'm very happy with the school program."

MRS. W.V. MATTHEWS: "I see advantages and disadvantages. I think on balance I would prefer to have my son here, although I don't worry about his adjustment. He will probably be the youngest one to be bussed, since he was born on the cut-off date. I'm not worried about the long day. In some ways I'd just as soon he made the transition now. But I'm not worried about that leadership issue. Frankly I think it's a crummy appeal to parents' pride."

MRS. MEL BLEVINS: "I'm pretty resigned to it. I have a lot of faith in the educators. I'm so happy with Tularcitos, but if they feel this is the thing to do, it must be all right. My son is very happy about it. They've worked so well at Tularcitos, Alex has tremendous study habits and he will do well. Parents I know who have children in the sixth grade are happy with Middle School, and I guess they have influenced me."

MRS. ROBERT BUSSINGER: "I've been thinking about it the last few days. I don't want to make a judgment on something I don't know anything about. If the school thinks it's really the best thing for the youngsters, I guess it is right. I'm not convinced one way or the other. Everything I know so far is not enough to make a learned judgment."

MRS. CHARLES ANDERSEN: "I am appalled. I am disappointed. There are so many reasons why, like emotional maturity. The long bus ride is minor compared to other objections. Leadership has no bearing at this age level -- there are other things they should concentrate on. They're going to have to bus more children and this will be an extra expense. In order to have this whim to send our sixth graders to Middle School it will cost the taxpayers more money. We have very highly qualified teachers at Tularcitos.

TULARCITOS PARENTS EXPRESS VIEWS ...

Many oppose transferring 6th graders from Tularcitos

Parents of present fifth graders at Tularcitos School reacted with predictable concern last week when they were notified their children would attend Middle School next year.

A couple who attended the school board meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jameson, are circulating a petition opposed to the transfer and asking the board to reconsider its decision at its next meeting on March 25.

"We feel the arguments of the board are very weak," Mrs. Jameson said.

"I can understand the matter of standardization, making the grammar schools the same. But I just can't see the other arguments."

She said she feels that if an exception was made for children attending Captain Cooper School because of the long distance involved, similar concern should be shown for children from Jamesburg and Cachagua.

"As far as special facilities go, the only difference I see is that Middle School has a gym," she said. "And as for leadership, if they take the percentage of children from Tularcitos, as opposed to the total enrollment, only a very few would be likely to be leaders anyway."

"And in addition, I don't feel that sixth grade children are physically or emotionally mature enough to be with the seventh and eighth grade anyway."

Her comments found support from many -- but not all -- of the fifth grade mothers who were called at random and asked what they think of the forthcoming change. Here are other reactions:

MRS. BETTY WILSON: "I'm not happy. We have another special problem. We're 3½ miles above the Village. They get the bus at 6:30 a.m., and then they are dumped out at the tennis courts. In winter it's dark and cold and no one's around. The bus doesn't leave down there until 7:15 a.m., and there is no shelter, no place to stay. The kids really don't want to go. It's such a long way. They'll leave here at 6:30 and not get back until after 4. They have to go the full day and take the extra period because of the bus. As for leadership, the number of kids who are going to hold office compared to the number going is small. I presumed all this was based on no more room (at Tularcitos)."

MRS. RICHARD CRANE: "I think it's very, very bad. I would prefer that the younger kids stayed up here. From what I've heard there are a lot of problems. I really am

OFFICIAL SAYS HEROIN NOW PREVALENT IN CARMEL SCHOOLS

Students on the Monterey Peninsula are somewhat more involved with drugs than those who live farther inland, and the use of heroin is rising dramatically.

This is not scare talk, but the blunt evaluation of an expert who recently released a detailed survey on drug abuse in Monterey County Schools - Dr. Robert H. Fries, assistant director of the Monterey County Health Department.

Dr. Fries spoke at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club. His talk and the question and answer session that followed centered around the drug habits and personal backgrounds of students in the seventh through twelfth grades in Monterey County.

He cited statistics from the report, which was ordered by the County Board of Supervisors and conducted during the 1968-69 school year. Among the important figures: 8 percent of seventh graders have tried drugs other than alcohol or tobacco. This rises to 17 percent for ninth graders, 37 percent in the tenth and eleventh grade, and 41 percent in the 12th grade.

(The Outlook will print a detailed analysis of the report in next week's issue. This will include a statistical profile of the parents of admitted drug users, how students first became involved with drugs, and their reasons why.)

Although this report was only released last month, Dr. Fries said it is already out of date because, among other things, it does not show any students involved with heroin.

"Heroin usage is now county-wide," he said. "There are youngsters in all school districts in the area using heroin. We know of 40 to 50 in the Salinas district using heroin but who are not addicted yet.

"We haven't identified the definite number on the Monterey Peninsula, but we know the user is getting younger and younger."

He said a conservative estimate would be that there are presently 400 to 500 heroin users in the county "with more on the way."

MORE THAN SALINAS

Dr. Fries declined to release any specific figures on drug usage for individual schools or districts. He did note, however, that the Monterey Peninsula seems to have a higher drug involvement among the young than Salinas proper, and Salinas in turn is somewhat ahead of southern Monterey County.

"This is consistent with what has been found nationally," Dr. Fries said. "The seaboard areas seem to be more avant garde than the inland areas. This is found on the national scene, and it is true within states. The less urban areas seem to be less sophisticated in many ways, and drug abuse is one of them. Where drug abuse has been found, it has been at a level already passed by urban areas."

Just last week, the County Board of Supervisors approved Dr. Fries' request for a broad scale drug information program in the larger cities of the Monterey Peninsula and Salinas Valley. In addition, halfway houses to assist heroin addicts will be set up in both localities.

Dr. Fries anticipates that many addicts will be treated with methadone, a relatively new drug that has so far proven effective in helping persons withdraw from heroin. However, methadone is in itself addictive, and treatment must be continued indefinitely.

Many doctors have likened the use of methadone to the diabetic's need for a daily injection of insulin.

Dr. Fries said that much more research with methadone needs to be done.

"So far it seems to be more effective with juveniles than with long-term addicts. And the cost saving to taxpayers is unbelievable."

OUTLOOK'S VILLAGE OFFICE NOW AT ALLAIRE'S INSURANCE

The Village office of the Carmel Valley Outlook is now located at Allaire's Insurance on Del Fino Place.

It was formerly located at Charee's Gift Shop, which is now closed. The owners, Dave and Charee Trebas, have entered a new field of activity.

Dick LaFayette succeeds Marty Eagan as mail carrier

Sam Brandt has a new member in his official family at the Carmel Valley Post Office.

Starting this week, Dick LaFayette, a veteran mail carrier from Salinas, will be delivering the mail to patrons in Robles and the area immediately north-east of the Village.

LaFayette is replacing Marty Eagan, who is moving with his wife, Daisy, to Grants Pass, Oregon. The Eagans plan to do some truck gardening and raise Australian silky terriers.

A native of South Dakota, LaFayette began working for the post office in Salinas in 1946 after serving with the Army in World War II. He has three children and two grandchildren.

Hunting and fishing are his favorite hobbies, but he is also quite a handyman. He built his own home on Enos Dr. in Salinas several years ago.

Friday was Eagan's last day on the job. In leaving the route he has served for 2½ years, he asked residents of the area "to have a little forbearance until Dick learns all the names and changes.

"He's way ahead of me in knowledge when I first started," Eagan said, "and if people will just be a little patient, they'll find he's one of the best mail carriers they've ever had."

'CONCERNED CITIZENS' SEEK PROBE OF LOCAL SCHOOLS

A request for an investigation of Carmel schools came up unexpectedly last week moments after the Carmel Unified School District board of education had adjourned its meeting.

The suggestion came from Dr. Edward M. Arana, Carmel Valley dentist, who said "things seem to be getting out of hand." He asked the board to appoint a committee of parents and teachers to study and evaluate several aspects of the school program.

Board chairman Hilton Bialek asked Dr. Arana to put his request in writing.

Later Dr. Arana said he was representing a group of "concerned citizens" whose children are now at Tulare County School or have been in the past.

He said his request to the board will be in the form of a petition asking the formation of a committee composed of two active teachers, one retired teacher and three interested lay citizens.

The petition states: "This committee will be formed by random selection. An ad to be placed in the local media (radio, TV, newspapers) requesting interested lay citizens to serve on the committee. This is to insure no collusion. We must request that all teachers submit their names. The selection shall be made by public lottery."

The petition goes on to list four areas of investigation:

"1. Investigation of the system of grading, and lack of a standard of excellence.

"2. Attitudes of permission and discipline, both teachers and students.

"3. Evaluation of the cultural aspects of the curriculum: a) sex, b) drugs, c) the moral tone of education.

"4. An inquiry into the problem of lack of respect and responsibility for teachers and students both given and received."

Dr. Arana said that among those supporting the petition are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coggeshall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oross, Richard McKenzie, Mary Clark, Kay Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Oliver and Mrs. Arana.

He said he expects to submit the petition to Dr. Hilton Bialek, chairman of the Carmel school board, for consideration at the next regular meeting Wednesday evening, March 25.

SENTENCED FOR ILLEGAL ENTRY

Two young men originally charged with auto theft and burglary pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of illegal entry last week and were sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

Ronald J. Kimbrough, 22, of Oakland, and Jerry Hill, 22, of San Francisco, were arrested Feb. 4 by sheriff's deputies and charged with burglarizing a Shulte Road cabin owned by Campbell H. McIntyre of El Cerrito. At the time of their arrest, it was believed the green panel truck they were driving was stolen. That charge was later dropped for insufficient evidence.

CAR RAMS TREE

A Monterey resident received minor injuries Saturday afternoon when his car skidded out of control on Brookdale Drive west of Glen Place and smashed into a tree. Richard Honey, 1941 Via Marettimo, was taken to Community Hospital for treatment.

Carmelo School parents learn how behavior may be improved

Several principles of learning, which can be applied to learning behavior as well as learning arithmetic, were outlined for parents at Carmelo School last week by Dr. Gene England of the Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing.

The psychologist listed five basic principles which underlie the use of positive reinforcement in any learning situation:

1. If you will reward behavior when it occurs, it will tend to happen again.
2. If you do not reward behavior, it will stop.
3. If behavior is too disruptive or bizarre, you have to resort to punishment. It is quick and efficient, but it is repressive and will come back to haunt you.
4. It is very important to give a reward immediately after good behavior. The longer it is delayed, the less effective it is.
5. Children learn best and fastest if they have a lot of success. If they have success from 90 to 94 percent of the time, they will learn at their maximum rate. If they succeed over 94 percent of the time, they will become bored; if under 90 percent, they will become discouraged from too much failure.

"The laws of learning are operating all the time like the laws of gravity," England told the parents. "The effort now is to try to learn how these laws operate and how to use them most effectively."

PICK A TARGET

England suggested that both parents and teachers should study the individual child and pick the specific behavioral target. Next they should measure it in some way - count the exact number of times this behavior occurs in a day and under what circumstances.

And finally, before starting to work to change this behavior, they need to choose an appropriate reward.

"You can't always run around the house with a pouchful of candy," England laughed. "But you do have to decide what an appropriate reward should be. Perhaps X's on a chart. Maybe the child gets a certain number of X's and can 'trade them in for a bigger reward.'"

England said many people think of rewards almost exclusively in terms of something that can be eaten. This approach is often used successfully with young children because they like to have something tangible and also like to have something in their mouths.

"But very early you want to make other things rewarding, too," England said. "You'll want to go over to social and verbal kinds of rewards, such as praise or being given special privileges."

The third kind of reward is intrinsic - the child does something just because it feels good inside.

England warned parents not to expect any child to get away entirely from the need for tangible rewards.

"As adults we still work for tangible rewards, such as money. We respond well to praise, and we get intrinsic satisfaction from doing certain things, but we still want something tangible. Children do too."

BY MRS. B.C. FORRESTER

The fruit we now call "cantaloupes" or sometimes "musk-melon", were named from the place in Europe where they were first cultivated. That place was the country residence of the Popes in Italy near the Village of Cantalupo.

This melon was a native of India, where it grew spontaneously, needing no cultivation, from the foot of the Himalayas to Cape Comorin. But today, under cultivation, it grows in temperate and warm regions all over the world.

In the 16th Century this melon was brought to Rome by way of Armenia. There are indications however, that the melon was known to the Romans, who called it my the common name they gave to members of this family, i.e. "cucumber". This name covered casaba, watermelon, dudaim and others.

From being a rarity grown in the Papal gardens, the Cantaloupe has become a popular melon, hundreds of acres of land in the entire world produce enough of these to supply the huge demand of the markets of cities as large as New York, London, Paris, Yokohama, everywhere.

However, just as a matter of interest, melons were known in Egypt many centuries before 1500 A.D. In the Biblical account of the return of the Hebrew slaves from captivity in Egypt, under the leadership of Moses, Chapter No. 1 of the Book of Numbers states at the 5th verse:

"Now the riff-raff among the Israelites craved flesh as food, and the very Israelites themselves, wailed again, 'O for flesh to eat! We remember the fish we ate free in Egypt, and the cucumbers, and the melons, and leeks, and onions and garlic!'"

By the enumeration of these foods, fish and vegetables and melons we can assume they were in sufficient supply in Egypt to enable the Egyptians to give them without charge to the Israelite slaves.

Seasoned with sour wine, or what we today call Vinegar, from the French "vin egre" which translated is "sour wine", the people living in Egypt thousands of years ago ate tasteful salads, ate fish in various ways and knew the art of making good soups.

Using the same ingredients today, with the addition of modern cooking aids, we give you the following tested recipes:

CREAM OF CUCUMBER SALAD

2 tsp. unflavored gelatin 1 cup heavy whipped cream
2 tbsp. cold water 1/2 sweet pimiento chopped
1/4 cup hot milk 1 tsp. vinegar
1 cucumber cut into tiny cubes salt and lemon juice to taste

Soften the gelatin in cold water, add the hot milk and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Turn the salad into a mold and chill in refrigerator for 12 hours. Serve on lettuce leaves with preferred dressing.

CUCUMBER WITH SOUR CREAM DRESSING

2 medium cucumbers 2 tbsp. vinegar
1/4 tsp. sugar (granulated) 1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. onion, minced speck of pepper
1 cup thick sour cream 1/4 tsp. salt
Pare cucumbers and slice. Sprinkle with 1 tsp. of salt. Chill for 30 minutes. Press out excess water in clean dishtowel.

Meanwhile combine rest of ingredients; toss 3/4 of mixture with cucumbers. Chill for another 30 minutes. Arrange on serving plates, cover with balance of sauce. Garnish with parsley or dot with paprika.

VEGETABLE OMLET

2 lbs. zucchini, diced 18-oz. can tomato sauce
1 large onion, chopped 1 tsp. each basil & oregano
2 or 3 sprigs parsley chopped 1 clove garlic, minced
3 celery tops, chopped fine 5 eggs
5 tbsp. olive oil salt & pepper 1/2 cup grated sharp cheese

Stir diced zucchini, onion, green pepper, garlic, parsley and celery tops into hot olive oil in heavy frying pan; cover and cook over low heat, stirring frequently until zucchini is lightly brown and wilted. Add tomato sauce and seasonings. Mix thoroughly. Return to low heat and simmer until mixture is moist, but not soupy. Beat eggs and milk and salt and pepper. Pour over zucchini mixture.

Cover and cook over low heat until eggs begin to set. Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika. Slip under the broiler until lightly brown. Cut in wedges to serve. Serves 6.

STEAMED FISH

2 green onions, tops and all, finely chopped 1 tbsp. soy sauce
1 lb. fresh mushrooms sliced 1 lb. any white fish
2 tbsp. peanut or salad oil salt & pepper few drops vinegar

Mix green onions and mushrooms with soy sauce. Place fish in basin. Cover with vegetables and oil. Place basin in steamer. Cover tightly and steam for 15 minutes. Season with vinegar, salt and pepper. Serves 4.

LEEK AND CRESS SOUP

4 grated medium size potatoes 1 tsp. salt
2 leeks, minced 1 qt. milk or half cream - half milk
1 bunch chopped cress 1 beaten egg yolk
4 tbsp. butter 1/4 tsp. white pepper

Saute the leeks and cress in the butter, over low heat for 5 minutes. These burn easily so keep stirring until they turn a golden color. Put all the ingredients in the pot and simmer in a double boiler about 20 minutes until the soup thickens. Stir in the egg yolk just before serving.

When leeks are not in the season this soup can be made with onions and minced or flaked parsley. The tops of sprouted onions can also be used.

PUREE OF LEEKS

12 leeks 6 medium sized potatoes
5 cups warm milk, or 2 cups fresh cream salt

Cut the leeks in pieces and boil in salted water. After 10 minutes add the potatoes, peeled and quartered. When the vegetables are sufficiently cooked press them through a sieve into baking dish. Stir in milk or cream to desired consistency. Put under broiler for few minutes to serve slightly brown on top, and hot.

For those observing the Lenten fast these will be useful recipes.

'CONSERVATION' IS EMPHASIZED AT ST. DUNSTAN'S CHURCH

In conjunction with St. Dunstan's Lenten Study Program on "Creation and Conservation", Willard Branson, Supervisor of the Fifth District, spoke to the Episcopal Churchwomen today (Wednesday) on the subject of "Water Conservation on the Monterey Peninsula".

The study of conservation has been the topic for study with the Sunday School children and the adults. Last month Hugh Smith, graduate forester and member of the Sierra Club, gave an address to the congregation on "The Conservation of Our Forests on the Monterey Peninsula". The young people had their "project" last Sunday when they picked up trash along Robinson Canyon Road.

Several sermons at the church services have dealt with the order of creation and the disorder that man has caused through pollution and the desecration of natural beauty.

TULARCITOS BASKETBALL NEWS - SHARPSHOOTERS TAKE FIRST

Saturday Basketball at Tularcitos ended with the Sharpshooters in first place. The cellar-dwelling Bullets proved to be a dark horse team as they moved into second place.

In the final action, the explosive Bullets shot down the Rockets 50 to 25. Ed Candas, David McKenzie and Dan Azcarate proved to be the decisive factor despite the tenacious defense by the Rocket stars, Jack Wilson, David Sternberg and Bengé Spiser.

After a short rest period, the Bullets again resumed court play and provided the lone defeat of the Sharpshooters, 18-6. The Sharpshooters, without their ace Laurent Longfellow, valiantly tried to counter the Bullets combine of Candas, Azcarate, and McKenzie by the superb floor play of David Fogelmanis, Mark Notenkamper and Shane Hattan.

To climax the season, those team members who consistently showed for games and practices during the foul and fair weather will be toasted at a Bar-b-que at Indian Village Campground next Sunday.

QUICK PASS out of scrum. You can see action like this at this year's annual Monterey National Rugby Tournament at Pebble Beach on Saturday and Sunday. More than twenty collegiate and amateur teams are expected to compete.

NATIONAL RUGBY TOURNAMENT AT PEBBLE BEACH THIS WEEKEND

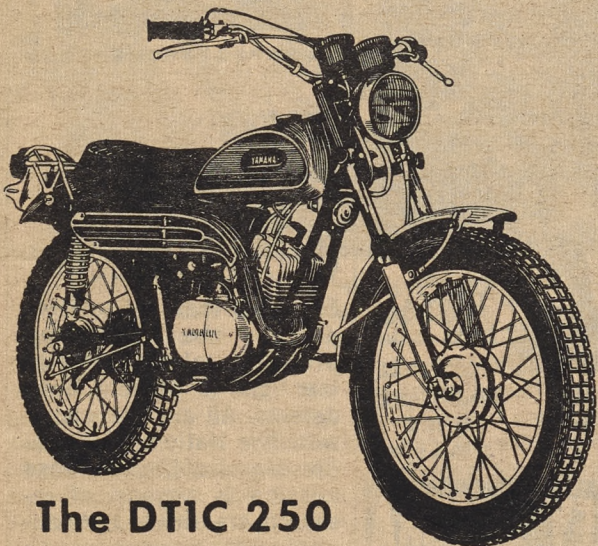

The twelfth annual Monterey National Rugby Tournament kicks off March 21 and 22 at Collins Field Pebble Beach after 7 years of play at Carmel Middle School.

Defending champions, Stanford University (winner '68 and '69) will compete, as well as some 20 west coast college and amateur teams. Included in the list are the University of Washington, Oregon State, Long Beach State and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

An added excitement to the tournament will be the presence of the Palmer College of Chiropractic from Davenport, Iowa. The self-styled "Giant Killers" are making a strong claim for national championship honor. This will be the first time, however, that they have tested their mettle against the best in the west.

Matches will be played at the Pebble Beach polo grounds throughout the day, with Saturday's games starting at 7 a.m.

Proceeds from this tournament will benefit the Monterey Peninsula's Jaycee youth work.

FAMILY SERVICE AGENCY IS EXPLAINED AT MPVS MEETING

M.P.V.S. celebrated the 15th anniversary of its founding with appropriate decorations during the Coffee Hour, preceding their monthly business meeting at the Monterey USO building.

Mrs. S.Y. Cutler, president, introduced Douglas Tellwright, of the Family Service Agency, who spoke of the far spread work in the community aimed at keeping families together, working from their quarters on Cass St. in Monterey. Their staff handles financial problems, personality clashes, friction, poverty, child problems and many other needs. They have a waiting list of 40 or 50 people at present.

Howard Wilson, new director of the USO, was introduced, and assured the group of his assistance whenever needed.

It was voted to give $1500.00 to Reality House; $200.00 to the Carmel American Field Service, and to permit the use of the proceeds from the Thrift Shop for the Carmel Youth Center from July 19 to 31, and to the Community Hospital Auxiliary for the month of October. A donation to Beacon House was passed and will be voted on at the next meeting.

Mrs. Howard Healey, chairman of the Garden Tour announced June 10 as the date of the event. The tickets will be $3.50 and tea will be served at the Robert Louis Stevenson School. It was voted to hold a champagne flower arrangement gala the night before at a private home.

Mrs. G.W. Hughes, membership chairman, announced as new members Mmes. Madelaine Conran, Marie Todd and Jean Bronson; and that Mrs. Richard Townsley was a re-instated member.

A great deal of merriment was occasioned from the Hat Sale, provided by Mrs. George H. Macy, Thrift Shop manager. Members flitted in front of a mirror with a wild assortment of headgear trimmed in vivid feathers, floppy roses, tulle swirls, and a few more sedate numbers.

Mrs. Cutler wished to clarify the system of gifts from M.P.V.S. Only organizations who present written requests are considered.

BILL FRISBIE IN TRAINING WITH THE NEW JUMBO JET

BY PAT GRIFFITH

How would it feel to be flying the biggest commercial passenger plane yet developed, the giant Boeing 747?

Carmel Valley's Bill Frisbie is finding out. A 15-year veteran with Pan American, Frisbie is being checked out right now on the new 362-passenger jumbo jet. As soon as receives final FAA certification, in two to three weeks, he'll be co-pilot aboard Pan Am's jumbo jet flights out of Los Angeles or San Francisco.

"I'm looking forward to it," Frisbie said last week. "It's an amazingly superior plane to the 707. It has terrific safety features and in many ways is easier to fly."

A tall lean 39, Frisbie has a quiet, unassuming self-confidence in himself and the aircraft he flies. On any other airlines in the world, he would have long-since qualified by experience and seniority to be captain of his own plane.

But at Pan American, which doesn't even hire pilots unless they are college graduates and have 2,000 hours of jet flying behind them, it takes a long time to rise in rank. Frisbie now rates 1,204 in seniority at Pan Am, out of about 3400 pilots and co-pilots. Sometime in the next two years he should move up to captain.

Pan Am's co-pilots have so much flight experience, in fact, that they are actually given an FAA rating equivalent to that of captain, and Pan Am is the only airline authorized to make long trans-Pacific flights with a captain and co-pilot, rather than two captains aboard.

Frisbie, who was an Air Force fighter pilot during the Korean War, has flown to all parts of the world except Africa. In recent years his runs have originated in San Francisco, and he has flown extensively around the South Pacific. He flies a maximum of 85 hours a month, which usually means two or three trips away from his family on Middle Canyon Road.

When he gets to Tokyo or Bangkok he often has the option of taking a return flight back or else continuing on around the world and flying home over the North Pole via London.

Many commercial airlines fly over Viet Nam as a matter of course, but some of Frisbie's flights there have not been strictly routine. Several times he has been a government charter delivering high explosives to Saigon, Da Nang of Cam Rahn Bay.

FLIES OVER WAR ZONE

"We may go over to Guam on a regular passenger run, and then pick up a government charter flight to Viet Nam, then fly an R & R (soldiers on a "rest and rehabilitation" leave) to Bangkok, and then come on home on another regular passenger run," he explained.

His unarmed cargo flights have been shot at with small arms fire in Viet Nam, and occasionally a Pan Am plane has an engine shot out, "but it's really not a problem," he insisted.

It is noteworthy that commercial pilots flying into the combat area get no additional flight pay or special income tax benefits, although military pilots and members of the Merchant Marine going into these areas do.

Frisbie's vast experience explains why he can view the mind boggling 747 with calm enthusiasm. He is impressed but not awed by the plane's vital statistics:

Over 231 feet long, 195 feet from wingtip to wingtip. Its tail is the height of a six story building. It can take off with a maximum gross weight of 712,000 pounds and carries over 47,000 gallons of fuel. Although Pan Am is limiting the seating to 362, the plane can take 490 passengers at 625 miles an hour at a cruising altitude of 45,000 feet.

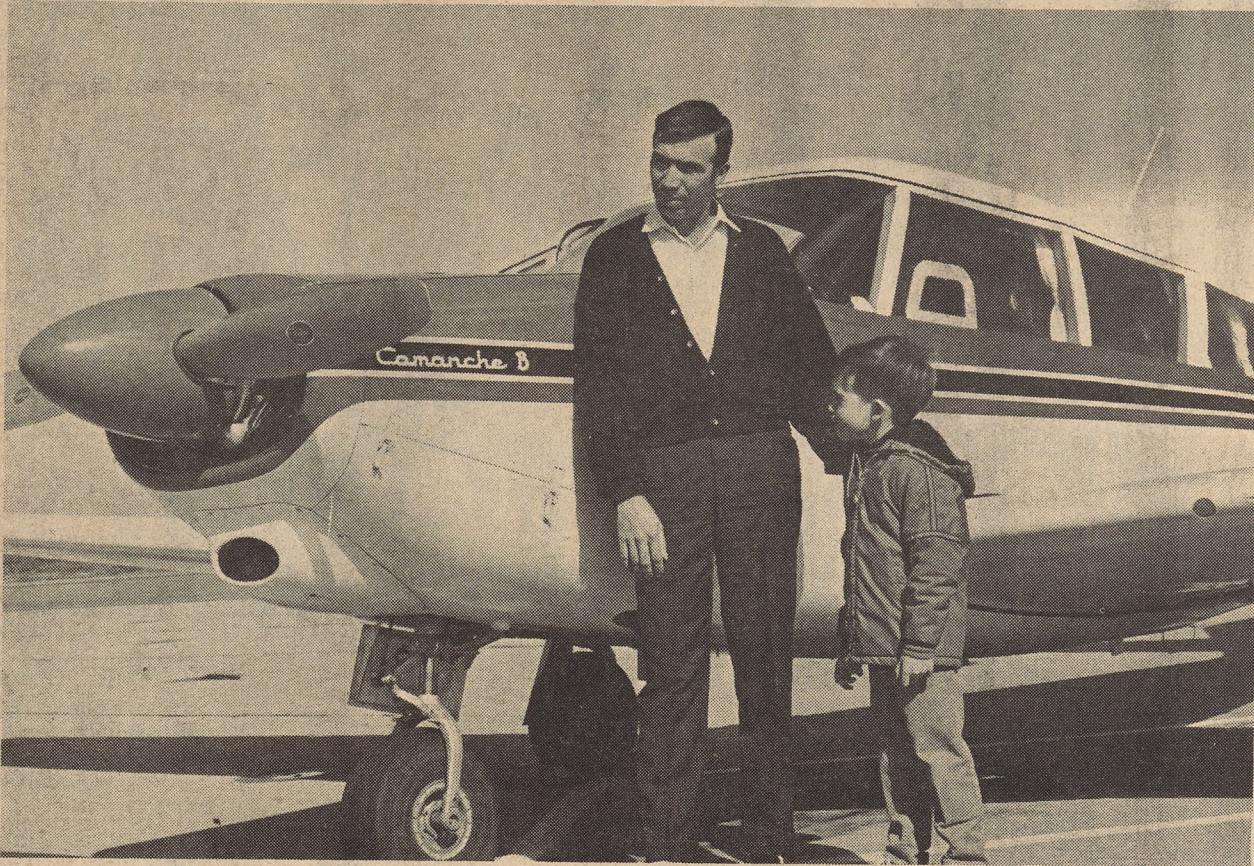

Inside the plane are an upstairs lounge for first-class passengers, 12 lavatories and six galleys equipped with over 10,000 pieces of silver, dishes and glasses.

In other words, it's big, huge, enormous. It's what Pan Am calls "The System of the 70's."

Ironically, in order to be able to fly the world's biggest passenger plane, last week Frisbie bought one of the world's smallest, a six-seater Piper Comanche B.

Until the Carmel Valley airport is resurfaced, he'll base his plane in Monterey and use it to commute to work in Los Angeles. It will also come in handy during the summer, when his family spends a lot of time at their summer cabin in the Feather River Canyon.

Frisbie's commute run to Los Angeles is miniscule by Pan Am standards. One of their San Francisco-based pilots "commutes" from Melbourne, Australia, and another reports there for work from the Virgin Islands. And several come from Hong Kong to start their runs from California.

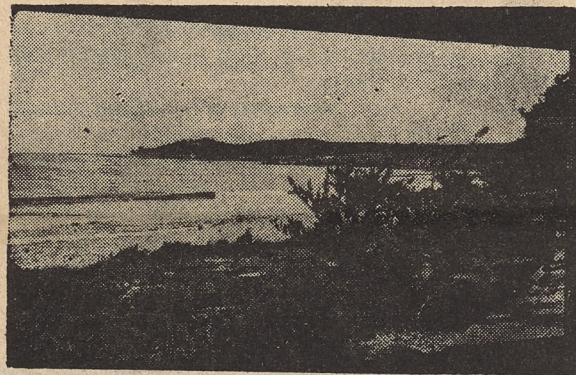

PAN AM PILOT Bill Frisbie will use this new Comanche B to commute to work in Los Angeles, where he'll be flying a slightly different type of plane -- the mammoth new 747 jumbo jet. Here young Billy Frisbie is all set to go for a ride with his dad, who flies world-wide as a co-pilot for Pan American.

SAVE CARMEL BAY!

VOTE 'YES' ON THE $1,500,000 BONDS

TUESDAY, MARCH 24

Your "YES" vote on this day will be a landmark in freeing our Carmel Bay of insufficiently treated sewage.

STOP POLLUTION

Our ultimate goal is no contamination whatever of our coastal waters.

KEEP TAXES LOW

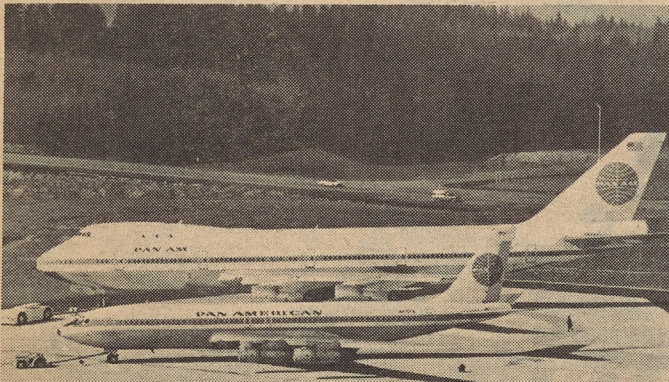

With approval of the bond issue, the Sanitary District tax rate will increase only about 12c per $100 to 53c. Without the bond issue tax rates can go to $1.00 per $100 of assessed valuation. Even then the funds raised will not be sufficient to build the plant in time.

YOUR VOTE IMPORTANT

A "YES" vote will help keep our ocean beaches clean.

CARMEL CITIZENS COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS A 'YES' VOTE ON TUESDAY, MARCH 24th

Rear Adm. C. W. Fisher (Ret.), Chairman

THE BIGGEST PASSENGER PLANE YET, the Boeing 747, towers above the familiar 707 jet in the foreground. Pan American is inaugurating jumbo jet flights from Los Angeles to Honolulu and Tokyo this week, and will shortly start similar service out of San Francisco. The inside of the 747 is longer than the Wright Brothers flew on their first flight. Despite its size, the 747 takes off in less runway than the 707, and makes less noise.

MORE BURGLARIES IN CARMEL VALLEY

Carmel Valley residents continue to be victimized by burglars.

Last week the home of Frank A. Young, 66 Los Ositos, was entered and food and liquor stolen. Among the missing items was a valued antique decanter worth $50. Young expressed the view that the decanter was highly valued to him personally, and if it were returned no questions would be asked. It was the second time in two weeks that his place was burglarized.

Over the weekend James Dole, Via Paloma, was hard hit by burglars who raided his home and removed property worth an estimated $1,220. It included stereo, color TV, coins and whiskey.

Also over the weekend the home of Harold Fly on El Caminito was entered and among other things a large view window was broken and a hole gouged in the floor.

Our Easter Basket will be waiting for you, loaded with spring lillies, iris, mums, carnations, roses and heather arranged in the old fashioned way, at old fashioned prices. Beautiful potted plants and artificial flowers are ready for your early selection.

THE FLOWER BUCKET just did the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cossins of Carmel Valley: The 30 dozen flowers were yellow daffodils and white freesia with an old fashioned touch of bristol fairy. The outdoor wedding and reception of Betty Garcia and Terry Parks at Rippling River Resort on the 21st will be our next big project as the wedding party alone will number 14. This too will be done in the old fashioned springtime style.

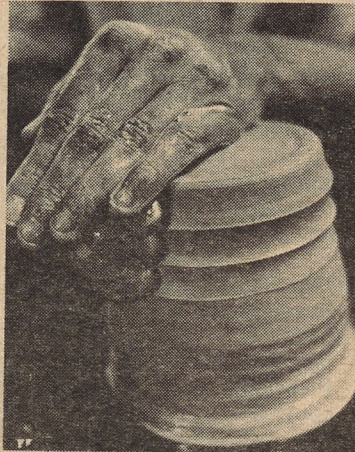

Drop by the shop and say hello; we love to get suggestions and talk about flowers. Happy Easter. CARMEL VALLEY FLOWER BUCKET. In the Village

Want to feel extra lovely with that new Easter Outfit? Then you must see the alluring selection of slips at the SILVER THIMBLE. Pettislips ... briefs ... bikinis ... in such irresistible colors as Pretty Poppy, Jasmine Pink, Breezy Blue and Jonquil ... all sizes. You must also see their new cotton dacron Coffee Coats, Mini Sets and Peignoir Sets, petite thru large sizes. All at Carmel's finest lingerie shop, THE SILVER THIMBLE, on Dolores at 6th, phone 624-2870.

THE PENINSULA POTTERS Spring Sale and Raku Firing Demonstration will be held March 21 - 29, 10:00 to 5:00 daily.

Making pottery by the 16th century Japanese Raku process is filled with action and excitement ... spinning mud shapes by skilled hands ... red hot pottery held delicately with steel tongs ... smoke boiling from buckets of sawdust ... then emerging beauty from perhaps a sparkling platinum surface interlaced with mossy greens and browns.

Unlike the conventional days-long method of producing pottery, Raku ware is done in a matter of minutes, from lump of clay to finished piece and is lighter in weight & glossier in appearance.

You may join all this fascinating activity at a free demonstration from 11:00 a.m. onward, on the next two Saturdays (March 21 and 28) at the PENINSULA POTTERS CO-OP, 221 Hoffman St., Monterey, near Cannery Row. Phone 372-8867. And at our Spring Sale, Mar. 21-29 you can get discounts up to 50 percent.

FRIDAY THE 13TH AN UNLUCKY DAY

Friday the thirteenth lived up to its reputation for an unlucky driver of a Coast Gas Co. butane truck last week. The truck plunged off the road when going into Hitchcock Canyon, and the Carmel Valley Fire Department stood by for over seven hours until it was safely hoisted back to the road. The driver was not hurt, and there was no fire.

Fire Chief Chip Collins has announced that the annual Easter Egg Hunt will be held at the firehouse on Easter Sunday at 1 p.m.

FORELORN? Maybe this pup would be happier in a happy home. Pups like this Samoyed mix are available at the SPCA Shelter near Laguna Seca. Photo by Virginia Kay.

CONSERVATION SUNDAY at St. Dunstan's Church saw these youngsters do their part in helping to clean up roads in the Mid-Valley area. Among those picking up trash are Arche Andrus, Sam Davidson, Andrew Lockwood, Leslie Robinson, Sandra Fulton, Laura Steinmetz and Heather McPhee.

TRASH WAS LOADED on a pick-up and hauled away. Youngsters shown are Joe Brock and Richie Wenzlik (in truck) and Vickie Thomas, Camille Stewart, Amy Brock and Tamara Stewart.
